1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2-23-04 has been entered.

2. Claims 26 and 30-32 are objected to under 37 C.F.R. 1.75(a) for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which the applicant regards as the invention. Claim 26, lines 5-6, cite "the one or more potentially faulty consumer electronic devices" however the antecedent basis for this is singular. Claim 26, line 6, cites "the at least one testing consumer electronic device" however the antecedent basis for this is singular. Claim 30, line 4, cites "each consumer electronic device" which should be "each home consumer electronic device". Claim 32, lines 1-2, cite "the plurality of home consumer devices" which should be "the plurality of home consumer electronic devices". Claim 32, line 3, cites "one of the plurality of home consumer devices" but was it "another one of the plurality of home consumer electronic devices" that was intended here. The examiner asks the applicant to better claim the limitations cited above. While the examiner understands the intentions of the applicant he feels confusion could be drawn from the limitations cited above. Appropriate correction is required.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 30 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Davis et al. (6,701,449).

As per claim 30, Davis et al. (see at least abstract) disclose “a plurality of home consumer electronic devices”. Davis et al. (Abstract, figures 3, 4b, 6a, 7, col. 1 lines 53-59, 64-67, col. 2 lines 1-7) disclose “wherein each consumer electronic device...receive data indicative of a fault in at least one other home consumer electronic device....locally diagnose the fault in the at least one other home consumer electronic device within the plurality of home consumer electronic devices”.

As per claim 32, Davis et al. (see at least abstract) disclose the feature of this claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claim 31 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Davis et al. (6,701,449) in view of Bertsch (5,938,757).

As per claim 31, Bertsch (Abstract, col. 1 lines 56-62) teaches the feature of this claim. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply the techniques of Bertsch to the invention of Davis et al. as specified above because as taught by Bertsch (col. 1 lines 21-25, 36, 37) the growth in electronic complexity and sophistication of consumer appliances has followed similar developments in office automation. Many appliances now contain microprocessors with memory and input/output to replace mechanical controls and consumer appliance manufacturers are aware of the benefits that could accrue if different appliances could be interconnected in the house.

7. Claims 1-29 are allowed subject to the appropriate correction of the 37 C.F.R. 1.75(a) objections noted in paragraph 2 above.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Hal D Wachsman whose telephone number is 571-272-2225. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Friday 7:00 A.M. to 4:30 P.M..
